

HEFLIN HURLS BOMB AT SUFFRAGE CAMP

Congressman From Alabama Declares Woman's Place Is at Home.

Washington, February 9.—Declaring that the cause of woman's suffrage is doing more to ruin the home, blast the moral hopes of the country's future, and to masculinize woman than any other thing in the world, Congressman Thomas Hefflin, of Alabama, erstwhile staunch supporter of the fair sex at all times and on all occasions, today came out squarely against the cause for women's suffrage, temporary headquarters of which is in Washington.

The Alabama Congressman, in an address at the Baptist Church, at Falls Church, Va., threw a bomb into the ranks of the suffragettes of that community, and advised the Virginians to take no part in the pagant which American women will give in Washington March 3.

"Religion will do more to uplift American manhood and womanhood than all the votes a suffragette can pack into a ballot box in six months," he declared. "The cause of suffrage is a bad one. As has been said a million times, the place of the woman is at home, by the fireside and in the bosom of her family."

"Place in her hands the ballot, induce her to occupy the plane of man, and you will destroy all that is feminine in her. Woman is loved for her femininity. Make of her a man, with a man's temper and a man's ambitions, and you lose from her character all that is beautiful."

"Do not let the woman vote. She has enough to do to look after the home. The man who builds that home and furnishes it will do the voting for both."

YOUNG SURRY COUNTY COUPLE ELOPE TO HALIFAX, N. C.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Emporia, Va., February 9.—Miss Annie Bishop, of Carlsby, Surry County, and H. R. Rogers, of Surry County, eloped to Halifax, N. C., Sunday night, where they intend to be married. On Sunday afternoon the young couple left Miss Bishop's home as if to take a short drive, but went a little way from Carlsby they whipped up their team and turned off toward Petersburg, where they boarded the Atlantic Coast Line train last night for Halifax. Parental objection to the match was supposed to have been the reason for the elopement. J. R. Johnson, a friend of the groom, accompanied the couple and assisted them in carrying out their plans.

Berolshneider a Suicide. Vienna, February 9.—Martin Berolshneider, who was American vice-consul here from 1895 to 1897, committed suicide today by shooting. Mr. Berolshneider recently had been ill and suffered from insomnia. His illness, it is believed, prompted the act.

TRIAL SET FOR TUESDAY.

J. H. B. Stephenson Charged With Shooting A. M. Brown.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Amherst, Va., February 9.—The February term of the Amherst Circuit Court will convene Monday, Judge B. T. Jordan presiding. This is not a civil term, and only criminal and chancery matters will be attended to. The case of J. H. B. Stephenson, charged with shooting A. M. Brown here last October, is set for Tuesday. It will be remembered that the pistol with which the shooting was done was found the morning after the assault on or was picked up one day this week near Stephenson's cigar shop by R. M. Staples, of this place.

Some of the school boys of the village Friday night gave a dance in the auditorium building of the Amherst Fair Grounds. Quite a large crowd attended. The chaperone for the evening were Mrs. F. B. Webster, of Amherst, and Misses J. R. Kent and B. Jordan, of New Glasgow.

TWO POST-OFFICES OPEN IN BRISTOL

Separate Accommodations Furnished for Virginia and Tennessee Patrons.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Bristol, Va., February 10.—For the first time in the history of the Post-Office Department two separate post-offices exist in one city—Bristol. For the first time in the history of the country an office of the fourth class has been established to accommodate a city of 10,000 population—Bristol, Va.

The new office opened its doors at 7 o'clock this morning, and from that moment the patrons have the privilege of free city delivery, a thing never before known in connection with an office of the fourth class.

In order to provide for the large volume of business that was destined to come to this office from the first day, Postmaster Gauthier, at his own expense, equipped the office with every modern convenience, including 750 lock boxes, mail racks, mailing tables and cancelling machine. The department, realizing what the new office would be, provided for the transfer from other offices and other branches of the service experienced clerks, so that the office opened this morning thoroughly equipped and manned with experienced help. Among those who are associated with the new office are Hall Francis, as assistant to the postmaster (transferred from Bristol, Tenn. post-office), Miss Rosa Rose, formerly postmaster at Abingdon; Harry Weller (transferred from the railway mail service); R. N. Peters, formerly assistant postmaster at Appalacheia, and Frank M. Hickley, of Bristol.

The credit for this new office is due largely to Congressman Slomp. The municipality of Bristol, Tenn., expects to pass from the old regime of an aldermanic board to the commission form of city government within a short while. The aldermanic board has voted in favor of the new form, and a bill will be presented to the Tennessee Legislature at once to authorize that form of government. The Council voted in favor of a commission to consist of the Mayor and two other members, the salary to be $1,500 each, except as to the Mayor, who is to devote only a part of his time to the work, and is to receive $600. The citizens will vote upon the proposition the latter part of March.

The Fire and Finance Committees of this city-to-day voted to invest $9,000 in a new motor truck fire-fighting apparatus, which will be a hose wagon and engine combined. The fire horses will be a thing of the past in both Bristols after this.

Will Smith, of Raleigh, N. C., and Will Bailey, of Winston-Salem, N. C., or two young men who have these names and addresses, have been held for the grand jury here on a charge of having entered the home of L. B. Larkin in daylight and robbed it of a gold watch and other articles of jewelry. The stolen goods were found in their possession.

ARRESTED IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Man Wanted in North Carolina for Felonious Assault Captured.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Galax, Va., February 10.—Robert Schuyler, deputy sheriff of Surry County, N. C., and P. F. Ward, of Galax, R. F. D. No. 2, arrived here yesterday with Arthur Willard, whom they had arrested at Bramwell, Va., on the charge of felonious assault upon a man by the name of Keys, near Ararat, N. C., some time last fall.

Willard and Keys had some trouble, and later Willard is said to have awaited in ambush and attacked him, striking him over the eye with a stone, crushing his skull. Keys recovered, though is badly disfigured. He is said to be a well-to-do business man, and highly respected in the community where he lives. Willard is a married man, and after escaping to West Virginia had his family join him there. When arrested he was working in the coal mines, and his captors say that a squad of his companions was present and not inclined to allow him to be taken. Willard himself remonstrated with them, telling them that he really preferred to come back and stand a trial, hence the necessity for requisition papers were avoided.

He sent his wife and family back to their home in North Carolina by way of Roanoke and Winston-Salem, while the deputies Schuyler and Ward brought him by way of Galax, going through the country from a distance of perhaps thirty miles.

Accepts Call to Luray.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Harrisonburg, Va., February 10.—Rev. George Z. Cook announced today that he had resigned the pastorate of the Harrisonburg Baptist Church to accept a call to the largest Baptist Church in Luray. Mr. Cook came to Harrisonburg about three years ago from Buchanan. He is a man of unusual popularity.

COURT'S DOCKET IS CLEAR.

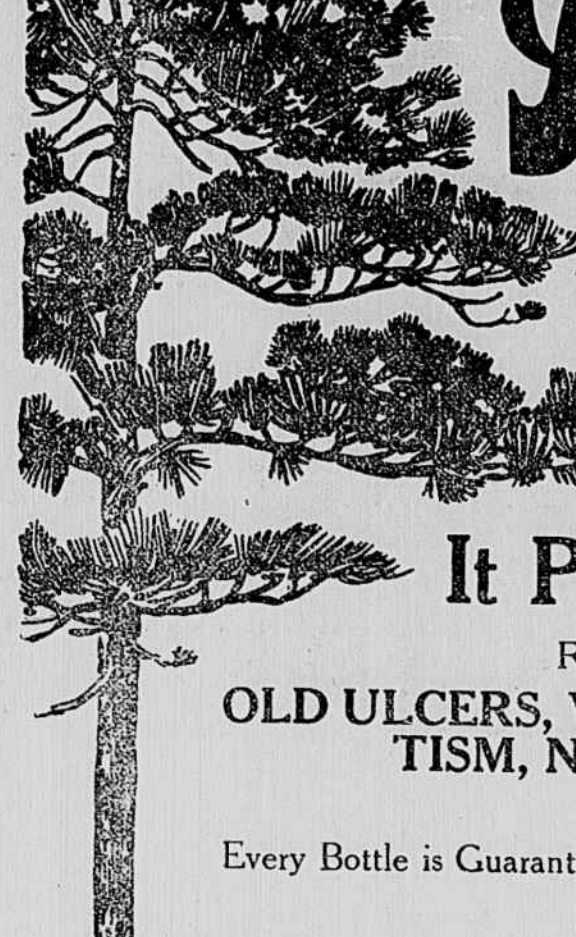

Twenty-Two Cases Disposed of During Term of One Week.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Northern, N. C., February 9.—The first week of a two weeks' term of the Superior Court for the trial of criminal and civil cases came to a close yesterday afternoon, and the grand jury was discharged, after being highly praised for their work. Judge J. C. Allen, of Kinston, presided over this term. At the opening of the session here there were ninety-two cases on the docket, and the last one of these was disposed of yesterday and this docket cleared. To-morrow he will return and preside over a session for the trial of civil cases.

Newborn Chamber of Commerce will on next Tuesday night begin a campaign for members. The campaign will be launched on a smoker to be given at the courthouse, and will continue for three days. At present this organization has about 100 members, number to 200 or more. The members have been divided into squads, and each squad will work under the direction of a captain. Already much interest is being manifested in the campaign, and that it will prove a complete success there is not the least doubt.

Dr. C. F. Stroinsider, the homeopathic specialist, who is conducting dispensaries in Pamlico County, at the present time, was in the city to-day to make some arrangements for the dispensaries which are to be operated in this county at an early date. Speaking of the work being done in Pamlico County, Dr. Stroinsider said that the citizens there were taking much interest in the dispensaries. More than 1,400 persons have been examined, and of this number about 800 "to affect" with the disease. This is a unusually large percentage, and shows that the disease is badly in need of the dispensaries. The dispensaries to be operated in Craven County will be opened during the next two or three weeks, and will be operated for six weeks.

ASTYPTODYNE HEALING OIL

Arringdale, Va., May 10, 1912.

To the ASTYPTODYNE CHEMICAL CO., Wilmington, N. C.:

Gentlemen,—I feel that I owe you a debt of gratitude, and I employ this method of telling you about it.

About thirty years ago I was afflicted with a sore on my leg, which continued to get worse and spread until it extended from my knee to my ankle. I began applying remedies. I consulted all the doctors around, and they all treated me, some with internal and others with external remedies, but they only gave relief temporarily. I suffered great pain, and at times I could not get around at all, and had to lose months at a time, with a large family to support. I had about despaired of ever getting well of this apparently incurable disease when I was induced to buy a bottle of your ASTYPTODYNE HEALING OIL and try it on my leg, which I did. After using the first bottle I began to get better—in fact, after the first application I began to get relief, and was able to sleep alright, where a few days previously I was unable to rest at all during the night. After I had used up the third bottle (25c size) my leg was entirely cured, and it has now been several months.

I wish to say that this testimony is voluntary on my part. You, nor any of the people who handle your medicine, have asked me to recommend this remedy, and I give it because I feel I owe it to you and suffering humanity, and with the hope that others afflicted as I have been may be benefited by this valuable remedy.

It is a well-known fact that some of the testimonials appearing in connection with patent medicine are believed to be fakes; but if you care to use this testimonial in advertising your product, and any one reading it has any doubt about the genuineness of the same, I will furnish same with a sworn affidavit, provided they pay all cost of such affidavit.

I have made the foregoing as strong as I know how to express it in language, and my cured leg is all the evidence I can produce to substantiate the statements I have made.

Yours very gratefully,

A. R. HARRELL,

REVIVE OLD SPIRIT OF COMMENCEMENT

Effort at University to Make "Finals" High Point in Students' Activities.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Charlottesville, Va., February 10.—A concerted effort among a number of classes, led by 1908, is being made to make the commencement at the University of Virginia in June an "old time" as regards the number of returning alumni, enthusiasm and gaiety. If the plans as laid are carried out successfully—and there seems to be good reason to believe they will be—"finals" this year will make the "old boys" think they were graduated only the day before, and the "baby alumni" will have something to think about for the rest of their natural lives.

For some reason the Easter festivities at the university have come to be the year's high point in the social activity of students and alumni, with the result that in recent years there has been a tendency to emphasize the days of that glad season at the expense, perhaps, of the social side of commencement week. At any rate, that has been the result to a considerable degree. It simply "evolved" that way, for there was no distinct effort to enhance the pleasures of Easter week at the expense of commencement week. Up to last June the impression had gained considerable vogue, however, that "finals" would never again compete with Easter at the university, and naturally students who were not to graduate that year and alumni felt no special call to "stay on" or "come on" for the closing exercises.

Last June saw the turning point. It was rather appropriate that the "boys of '01" should be the means of restoring "finals" to their rightful place in the social calendar. They came to receive their medals and to live over again the days of their youth in brief compass amid the scenes, where, in response to the call of duty, they laid down their books and took up arms for the Confederacy. Their presence drew hundreds of other alumni, and for the same reason many students stayed on.

Alumni and students alike soon began to wonder how the impression over got abroad that Easter should mark the height of social festivity at the university, and no one was able to give any very definite reason. Those who attended the last commencement voted the experience a most enjoyable one, quite apart from the attraction furnished by the veterans, and then there were plans were laid to revive the old "finals" spirit and enthusiasm.

The result is seen in the campaign started by the class of 1908, which has enlisted the co-operation of members of other classes. While all this will in no wise detract from the Easter festivities, yet it will undoubtedly mean that next June there will be an old-time commencement, with some modern innovations, at the University of Virginia that will be well worth attending, and in which it will be a rejuvenating experience for alumni to take part.

A complete program will be announced shortly. Lewis D. Crenshaw, of New York, secretary of the class of 1908, has general charge of it.

Dean James Morris Page announced last night that the total registration to date was $21. This is the largest number of students registered in the regular courses, eliminating, of course, the summer school attendance, that has ever been enrolled at the same date of any year in the history of the university.

CONVENTION BUILDING AT EXPOSITION GROUNDS BURNS

Norfolk, Va., February 10.—Fire yesterday afternoon totally destroyed the Convention Hall building at the Jamestown Exposition grounds. All that is now left to mark the huge frame and stucco structure in which William Jennings Bryan spoke when he visited the Jamestown Exposition is a pile of ashes.

Just how the building ignited is not known. T. J. Wool, of the new Jamestown Land Company, owners of the building, said last night that he thought a flying spark from a passing locomotive on the Virginia Railway set fire to the dry grass surrounding the building.

When the fire was first seen several places on the roof were ablaze, and in spite of the efforts of nearby residents the timber-like structure was soon a mass of flames. A call for assistance was telephoned to the Norfolk Fire Department and Chief McLaughlin raced the motor engine from No. 6 company down the boulevard. They arrived too late to save the building, but kept the fire from spreading to other property.

The convention hall had a seating capacity of between 3,000 and 4,000 and was the scene of many large gatherings during the exposition. It had not been used in a number of years. Mr. Wool said it was valueless except for the material in it.

Dangerously Ill With Pellagra.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Harrisonburg, Va., February 10.—Frank Harpine, sixty-two years old, is dangerously ill with pellagra, near Quickburg, Shenandoah County. This is the second case of pellagra ever known in the Valley of Virginia. A patient from Cootes Store, Rockingham County, died at the University Hospital, Charlottesville, about four years ago. Harpine's legs, arms and back are attacked with the peculiar brown affection incident to pellagra.
